

New SDVC publications from Standing Together

Standing Together developed the SDVC at West London Magistrates' Court in 2002, the first in the country after the Leeds SDVC and the first in the country to hear trials, and continues to coordinate the SDVC partnership in West London today.

Lessons Learnt 2006: A three year overview of the Specialist Domestic Violence Court, West London:

Detailing lessons learnt, measurable outcomes and good practice, Standing Together is publishing this overview of more than three years of the SDVC's operation in conjunction with the launch of the Domestic Violence Bench Book and Good Practice Guide in September.

Price: £5 (8pp)

The Domestic Violence Bench Book and Good Practice Guide

by Jan Lesser, Head of Legal Services at West London Magistrates Court

This is a guide which is required reading for Magistrates and lawyers and all professionals who deal with domestic violence in the criminal courts.

- District Judge (MC) Jeremy Coleman

A unique resource to assist magistrates and DJs in SDVCs, the Domestic Violence Bench Book and Good Practice Guide is designed to work as a route map through all the court processes experienced in an SDVC. It is the only such Bench Book in the country.

Price:

Package for courts: £100

Individual copies: £25

(50pp)

SDVC Tool Kit: Standing Together has developed a Tool Kit designed to complement the Home Office SDVC Resource Manual 2006. The Tool Kit is a practical implementation guide for SDVCs and offers useful advice and resources based on the detailed work now embedded at the SDVC in West London. This is likely to be offered as part of a day's consultancy and introduction to the Tool Kit. Publication date to be confirmed.

All prices cover cost of production and p&p (included) only.

To order any of the above contact Standing Together on admin@standingtogether.org.uk or fill in the order form below.

Please note that these publications will not be launched until 11 September and will be sent to you after that date. The publication date of the SDVC Tool Kit will be confirmed.
